

HSBC Frontier Markets Fund

Share Class A (HSFAX) and Class I (HSFIX)

Fund description and strategy

The Fund seeks long-term capital appreciation by investing primarily in the equity securities of companies in frontier market countries. The Fund's portfolio management team uses an in-depth stock selection process that combines both qualitative and quantitative inputs, applying a top-down country approach and a bottom-up stock analysis, with a strong emphasis on the latter. By following a disciplined and fundamental approach to investing, combining top-down and bottom-up elements, the team believes this investment process helps to equally take advantage of opportunities at the country, sector and company level as they arise.

Investment Risks:

There is no assurance that a portfolio will achieve its investment objective or will work under all market conditions. The value of investments may go down as well as up and you may not get back the amount originally invested. Portfolios may be subject to certain additional risks, which should be considered carefully along with their investment objectives and fees. Equity investments fluctuate in value based on changes to an individual company's financial condition and overall market conditions. Investments in foreign markets entail special risks such as currency, political, economic, and market risks. The risks of investing in emerging markets countries are greater than the risks generally associated with foreign investments. Frontier markets countries generally have smaller economies and even less developed capital markets or legal and political systems than traditional emerging market countries. As a result, the risks of investing in emerging market countries are magnified in frontier market countries. Derivatives may be riskier than other types of investments and could result in losses that significantly exceed the Funds' original investment. Non-diversified funds focus investments in a small number of issuers, industries, foreign currencies or particular countries or regions which increase the risks associated with a single economic, political or regulatory occurrence. The Fund will invest more than 25% of its total assets in securities issued by companies in the financial services group of industries. Accordingly, the Fund will be more susceptible to developments that affect such industries than other funds that do not concentrate their investments. Exposure to commodities markets, including investments in companies in commodity-related industries, may subject the Fund to greater volatility than investments in traditional securities. The value of commodity-related investments may be affected by overall market movements and factors specific to a particular industry or commodity.
